Reading this separate operator record

This volume explains the detailed saved 1w terms. Clause numbers are retained as locators, including gaps where the supplied extract has no intervening clause. It is a dated account of that operator's text, not the conditions of the editorial publisher, not a legal determination, and not an extension of the India CASH-1WIN episode. Sports Cash-out below is distinct from the original Tower Rush button. A separate promotional line invites daily tickets for a chance to win a Lamborghini Urus SE.

Definitions: clauses 1.2–1.10

Clause / term	Meaning in this operator's terms
1.2 Stake	The customer–company agreement to predict an event outcome, entered by placing a bet under the company's conditions.
1.3 Bet	The money transferred to participate in that agreement.
1.4 Outcome	The result of the event or events bet on.
1.5 Client	A person betting with the company on an event result.
1.6 Line	The offered events, possible outcomes, odds and acceptance-closing dates/times.
1.7 Win odds	The company's numerical value for an outcome, described as indicating probability and used to calculate potential winnings.
1.9 Cancellation	Settlement at odds of 1, returning the stake.
1.10 Regular time	The sport's prescribed match length plus officials' added time; excludes extra time, overtime, penalty series and penalty shots.

General settlement and claims: clauses 2.1–2.13

Settlement uses processing-centre information (2.1). A bet wins only when every included prediction is correct (2.3). A bet on an outcome already known when placed can be settled at 1 (2.5). A claim must be made within ten days after the person knew or should have known of the alleged infringement, with supporting facts and arguments; insufficiently substantiated claims can be returned without review (2.7).

An obvious odds error permits settlement at the correct odds for the final result or at 1 (2.10). Transliteration differences in team/player names or venues are not grounds for claims; tournament-name information is auxiliary and errors do not create a refund right (2.11). English is the definitive version; translations are reference versions (2.13).

Acceptance, timing and interruptions: clauses 3.1–3.13

Customers choose current/upcoming events from the company's line (3.1). The company reserves event-specific and customer-specific maximum-stake or odds changes without notice or explanation (3.2), and can restrict repeated bets by the same player on the same outcome/combination (3.3).

Prematch bets must precede the actual start; line dates, times and comments are approximate. A late prematch bet is invalid, while a valid live bet is an exception (3.6). A refund is settlement at 1; the refunded leg of an accumulator also uses 1 (3.7). Postponement/cancellation is established from organisers' official documents, federation or club sites and other sports-information sources, and the line is adjusted accordingly (3.9).

A bet on a result that has occurred but is not yet reflected in the system is cancelled (3.11). A start postponed by more than 72 hours also causes cancellation (3.12). After interruption, already-determined outcomes settle as known. Undetermined outcomes wait up to 48 hours; if the event is not resumed and completed, they settle at 1, subject to special Rules on Sports exceptions (3.13).

Bet types and dependence: clauses 4.1–6.3

A single's winning return is stake × its odds (4.1). An accumulator combines independent outcomes, with return equal to stake × all included odds; one losing leg loses the whole accumulator (4.2). Only one dependent outcome is permitted. Where two or more dependent events are included, the lower-odds events are excluded (5.1). Dependence means one part's result affects another (5.2).

"Team scores a penalty Yes/No" loses if no penalty is awarded during regular time (5.3). "How the goal will be made" and "Next goal" lose if the numbered goal never occurs (5.4). Live betting covers main and additional outcomes, as singles or combined in one accumulator (6.1). The company disclaims accuracy of its current live scores and asks customers to consult independent sources (6.3).

Markets: clauses 7.1–7.10

Clause / market	Settlement description
7.1 Match result	P1 first team, X draw, P2 second team; a correct prediction wins.
7.2 Double chance	X1 wins if the first team does not lose; 12 if either team wins; X2 if the second team does not lose.
7.3 Handicap	Add the handicap to the selected team's goals/points. A resulting lead wins, tie refunds at 1, and deficit loses.
7.4 Total	Predict over/under the offered total. Exact equality refunds at 1, including the accumulator leg.
7.5 Progress	Whether the team/participant advances to the next stage.
7.6 Higher finish	Which team ranks higher in the final table; line-specific conditions may supplement it.
Additional listed forms	Handicap victory based on goal/point difference; total goals/points; and number of team wins or draws in meetings.
7.8 Asian handicap	Quarter values not divisible by 0.5, e.g. −0.25, +0.25, −0.75, +0.75, split into nearest whole/half-point handicaps.
7.9 Asian total	Values such as 2.25, 2.75 and 3.25 split the original stake equally between nearest standard totals, at the original odds.
7.10 Further markets	The company reserves additional betting options.

Results, participation and venue: clauses 8.1–8.22

Wrong results supplied by the betting provider can lead to recalculation (8.1). Actual start time comes from organisers' official documents, or federation/club sites and other sports sources when those documents are absent (8.2). Displayed start times are approximate; the company disclaims mismatches and uses actual official start time for settlement (8.3). Championship names and lengths in line/live information are also approximate, and customers are directed to independent sources (8.4).

A result claim needs official organiser result documents and must arrive within ten calendar days after the event ends (8.5). Late prematch bets and affected accumulator legs settle at 1 (8.6). If a customer knew an outcome before betting, a special closed investigation can void and refund the bet; related actions remain suspended during that investigation (8.7).

Clause	Participation / venue rule
8.8	A participant's pre-event refusal cancels all bets on that participant.

Clause	Participation / venue rule
8.9	For retirement during competition, bets made before the beginning of the last round/stage in which the participant took part remain valid; other bets are cancelled.
8.10	A team member’s non-participation settles bets at 1 unless a specific rule says otherwise.
8.12	A change to the specifically named pair of teams/athletes voids all event bets at 1.
8.13	Replacing individual members of a team does not invalidate whole-match outcome bets.
8.14	In named doubles pairs, replacing even one participant voids all event bets at 1.
8.15	For home/away events, relocation to a neutral field or the opponent’s field leaves bets valid.
8.16	Where home/away does not apply, a venue change leaves bets valid. North American listings may use either home–away or reversed order without refund/adjustment: NBA, NHL, AHL, CHL, OHL, WHL, East Coast Hockey League and other North American competitions are named.
8.17	Friendly matches and club-friendly tournaments remain valid after venue changes.
8.18	General rules govern sports/situations without special rules.
8.19	The company makes the final decision in unprecedented disputes.

If the company acknowledges an odds-calculation software error, all affected event bets are recalculated at 1 (8.21). Once an initial official result has been announced at event completion, subsequent protests, appeals, disqualifications including doping, or governing-body administrative changes do not alter settlement; later standings/classification changes also leave the original settlement final under clause 8.22.

Sports Cash-out: clauses 9.2–9.8

Only active, unsettled bets qualify (9.2), covering upcoming prematch and live sports (9.3), singles and accumulators, subject to event exclusions at company discretion (9.4). For an accumulator, Cash-out applies to the entire ticket, never an individual leg. It can be used after correctly predicted legs have finished only while the relevant markets remain open and accept bets (9.5). The offered amount appears in the betslip in Bet History (9.6). The company can approve or refuse any request for any sport, competition or market (9.8).

Agreement changes and territorial lists

The pronouns we/us/our/company refer to the contracting bookmaker (10.1). Commercial, legal or customer-service reasons can lead to amendments; current terms and start dates appear on the site, and customers must review them. Website operation can change without prior notice (11.1). A customer who rejects amended terms must stop using the site; continued use counts as acceptance, even without receiving or reading notice (11.2).

The Universal Monsters restriction covers Frankenstein, the Bride of Frankenstein, Dracula, The Phantom's Curse, Creature from the Black Lagoon and The Invisible Man. These provider/game territorial lists do not define original Tower Rush eligibility. In particular, the presence of a Polish registration setting elsewhere does not cancel Poland's appearance in the operator's exclusion list.

Excluded participant categories also include athletes, coaches, officials, owners, club managers and anyone able to influence the event, or people acting on their instructions (12.6.1); representatives of other betting offices (12.6.2); and anyone prohibited by applicable legislation (12.6.3). The participant bears responsibility for breaching 12.5. The company reserves refusal of winnings, recovery of amounts already paid and cancellation of bets whenever it discovers prohibited status (12.7).

Verification, digital assets and conduct: clauses 14–20

Address evidence may include a utility bill no older than three months (14.3.2). The customer authorises inquiries and use/disclosure of information to third parties for validation (14.6). Requested documents must be clear and legible, in English or another agreed language (14.9). Suspicion of money laundering or crime can cause transaction refusal at any stage without notice that suspicion was reported to authorities (14.11).

The interface's information is not an offer, invitation or inducement to acquire, dispose of, underwrite or convert crypto/digital assets, or to buy, sell or encourage their purchase/sale (16.15–16.15.2).

The company discourages coordinated/group betting from a shared IP/local network and may treat it as collusion, fraud or deception (18.1). Fraud, malicious software, bots, exploiting bugs, money laundering and other criminal participation are prohibited (18.3, 18.3.2, 18.3.4). It states that it will use lawful measures to detect/exclude collusion and its participants, while disclaiming customer losses caused by fraud (18.5).

Offensive/aggressive/obscene language, threats and violence against staff or customers are prohibited; the company may end correspondence or leave a request unreviewed (19.1). Disruptive uploads, viruses, malware, mass mail/spam and changes/deletion of published site information are prohibited (19.2). Use is for amusement and copying all or part of the site is barred (19.3). The company disclaims customer/third-party damage from technical failures caused by attacks or other malicious actions (19.5). The listed service-termination grounds include stopping service generally or for a group (20.1.1), criminal collusion/hacking (20.1.4), interrupting/manipulating software (20.1.5), and offensive/humiliating publication (20.1.7).

Faults, liability and intellectual property: clauses 22–26

For a betting-time website malfunction, the company promises to try to restore operation promptly but disclaims faults in customer access equipment and internet-provider interruptions (22.1). It and its service providers disclaim losses, including lost winnings, from customer or company errors (23.3). Use is the customer’s choice and risk (24.1). The agreement governs service, without additional guarantees to the extent permitted by law (24.2); unforeseeable offences, negligence and losses are disclaimed (24.3), as is content of linked resources (24.4).

The indemnity provision covers the company, partners, employees and directors against specified claims, liability, expenses and losses, including another person’s use of the customer’s credentials with or without permission (25.1, 25.1.3).
