Crypto descriptions and investment advertising: source record only

The supplied material mixes currency descriptions with investment promotions. The statements that a coin is safe, will rise or offers profit are recorded below as operator claims, not financial advice or verified forecasts. They do not establish a guaranteed return from holding crypto or gambling.

Asset	Complete saved description / claim
Ethereum	Associated with dark blue; promoted as reliable/safe and forecast only to rise.
Dogecoin	Large circulating quantity and frequent large holdings; associated with yellow and described as a safe purchase. A nearby comparative transfer-cost/value fragment does not clearly identify its subject.
Bitcoin Cash	Bitcoin derivative described as lower in value, with growth potential and more frequent price fluctuation; promoted as safe and likely to become more valuable like Ether.
Tron	Associated with red, described as worth a little more than Dogecoin and a lesser-known potential niche investment, with growth forecasts.
Tether	Stablecoin designed to track the US dollar.
USD Coin	US-dollar stablecoin; the historical description says managed by Centre, founded by Circle with Coinbase and Bitmain. This organisational statement is not refreshed here.
ApeCoin	Described as the Bored Ape Yacht Club native coin, developed by Yuga Labs and released early 2022; source acronym is BAYT.
Chainlink — LINK	ERC-677 token for decentralised oracle networks (DONs), linking off-chain systems and on-chain smart contracts. Basic-request and decentralised-data models; node-operator fees and implicit/explicit staking named; available for wagering in the source.

Agreement, account and eligibility clauses

Clauses 3.1–3.6 describe a binding agreement upon registration, to be read in full before use. Terms take priority over game rules/referenced documents and English is the sole legal basis if translations differ. Stake reserves amendments without advance notice, may announce them by email/site notice, and makes checking the user's responsibility; continued use accepts changes. Clause 24.1 repeats binding amendments on posting and possible service changes without notice.

Application information must be truthful, current and correct (4.7), and remain complete with changes promptly reported (5.1t). Login details must be private (4.12), offered security measures are encouraged (4.18), and losses from failure to protect credentials are disclaimed (4.25). The supplied fragments refer to fraudulent/collusive/illegal/improper use and suspected or likely occurrences, but omit intervening grounds. Under the referenced 4.19 circumstances, 4.21 permits voiding later bets and withholding/retaining payable amounts including winnings to the extent lawful; no missing grounds are invented.

Eligibility / integrity condition	Recorded requirement
Age	Over 18 or the applicable higher legal age.
Capacity	Full capacity for a binding agreement, without a limiting legal incapacity.
Problem-gambling representation	User represents not being diagnosed/classified as a compulsive/problem gambler.
Personal use	Own choice/risk; personal, non-professional, recreational use on own behalf.

Eligibility / integrity condition	Recorded requirement
Prohibited conduct	Fraud, collusion, fixing, unlawful conduct and software-assisted techniques/hardware for participation.
Inside information	No betting on events under the relevant governing body when holding non-public event/outcome information.
Influential participant	Athletes, coaches, managers, owners, referees or others able to affect results must not bet on relevant governing-body events.
Ownership threshold	Direct/indirect legal or beneficial ownership of 10% or more in a governing body/member team triggers the stated event-betting restriction.
Odds compilation	A person involved in a competition must not compile its betting odds.

Bet acceptance, errors and platform operation

Only offered online/mobile bets are accepted; post, email, fax or other submissions are invalid regardless of result. A bet becomes accepted only on Stake's confirmation; acceptance is discretionary (10.1–10.2). Customers check details and cannot cancel a placed bet; Edit Bet works only where available. Stake may amend/cancel for suspended/cancelled events, obvious bet/odds errors, terms breaches or legal/regulatory requirements. Funds are allocated in placement order, unavailable elsewhere, and later transactions involving those funds may be reversed retrospectively (10.3–10.4).

The saved 19.1 error examples cover deliberate bad-faith exploitation of obvious odds/spread/handicap/total/cash-out errors, bets accepted on closed/suspended markets, wrong settlement including full-value cash-out or incorrectly voided "Void if player does not start" selections, and RNG/paytable errors. A fragment of 7.7 and an isolated request for additional information lack complete surrounding conditions; they are not expanded into a new withdrawal rule.

Telecom/network outages, slowdowns and capacity constraints are outside Stake's control. Equipment/connectivity may prevent bets or information access; interruption-free or fault-free service is not guaranteed (15.1). Mobile presentation may place information differently and omit game names on some pages because of display size (15.3). Services are for recreational bets only; third-party-benefit, illegal, defamatory, abusive, obscene, discriminatory, dishonest or inappropriate use is prohibited and may be reported (16.1–16.2). Unlawful bets need not be accepted/processed/honoured (16.5).

Software, content, warranties and liability

Clauses 6.2/17.6 supply software "as is", excluding implied quality, merchantability, fitness, completeness/accuracy and similar warranties. No promise is made that requirements are met, third-party IP is not infringed, operation is uninterrupted/error-free, defects are corrected or servers/software are virus-free. A separate fragment requires secure/appropriate management of player funds without completing the adjacent list.

Some products may require downloads or third-party terms; the example refers to a Flash player as a historical source statement, not a current installation instruction (17.1). Rejecting third-party terms means not using that product. Software is licensed only for service use; installation/use is at the customer's risk. The restrictions include network redistribution/bulletin-board access, security bypass/robots/interference, copying/translating online documentation, reverse engineering/decompilation/disassembly/adaptation/modification/source-code discovery/derivative works except minimum legal exceptions, and improper use/disclosure of confidential provider information (17.2–17.9).

Stake may alter, correct, suspend or discontinue the site/content/services/access and disclaims unavailability (17.10). Malware, unauthorised access, damage/disruption and denial-of-service attacks are prohibited; resulting virus/DDoS loss is disclaimed (17.11). Third-party feeds/commentaries/content may have additional terms, carry no Stake liability, and external links are information rather than endorsement (18.1–18.3).

Fraudulent/dishonest/criminal use carries indemnity for costs and direct/indirect/consequential losses, lost profit and reputation affecting Stake/affiliates (16.4). Breach may cause termination or legal action (20.1); 20.2 includes a broad defence/indemnity for Stake, shareholders, directors, agents and employees, but its following ground list is not supplied. Clause 21.1 disclaims special/incidental/direct/indirect/consequential loss including business/profit/information losses even with prior knowledge; 21.2 preserves liability for death/personal injury caused by negligence.

Stake owns its trademarks/domain names and site content, including images, graphics, photos, animation, video, music, audio and text; use grants no ownership and written consent is required for use (22.2). Stake can assign the agreement without notice, while users cannot (27.1). Non-enforcement is not a future waiver, third parties gain no rights, no partnership/agency/trust/fiduciary/joint-venture relationship arises, and the agreement supersedes prior arrangements (28.1–28.5).
